Dear Mr Ceeighton,

RE: NO SEX PLEASE-WE'RE BRITISH

Thank you for your letter of the 14th November. We understand that the your Department has made representations to the European Commission against the use of credit cards as decoders for adult satellite channels and that no other country has made any such representation.

Why are you trying to prevent consenting British adults from having the same freedom of choice as exists in all other parts of the European Union? Why do you believe we need such nannyism? This country is supposed to be a democracy and you, as a Department of State, thus have a duty to justify your activities.

Yours for Freedom of Expression,

CIlr E Goodman
Chair of CAC
