Sir

YOUR PRIVATE MEMBER'S BILL

This country already has the strictest dvd censorship in the Western World. The titles you are complaining about are lawfully on sale throughout Europe and America. The whole point of the British Board of Film Classification is that it is free of interference from politicians and pressure groups. It is there to apply the law objectively without fear or favour. Why do you seek to change that ?

In any event the authoritarian nannyist idea that adults should be denied any material unsuitable for a child is an insult to their intelligence. Watching dvds should not be used as an excuse for crimes of violence, as you seem to suggest.

Yours for freedom of expression,

E Goodman
